

Abstract

The present invention relates to a process for the sterilization and/or germ reduction of impression material by means of radiation.